While there are good word filters for Twitter, none completely rid you of viewing that accounts other, possibly equally bad-faith tweets.

There are word filters on twitter, that specifically hide posts/comments on twitter containing a word or words of your choice. However, there is no easy option to both hide that post, as well as ensure you do not see that accounts other posts automatically. People saying uncool things once are likely to do it again, a preventative solution would be useful